Monster Movie Month

October is Monster Movie Month in the library. Each Thursday the library will show a different monster movie. Each movie will start at 6:00 pm. This is a terrific way to get into the Halloween spirit and spend some time with the family. While most of the selections are family friendly, please pay attention to ratings information. No one under the age of 17 will be admitted into an R rated movie without a signed parental consent form. While we understand that monster movies are not for everyone, we do ask that adult responsible parties stay on the premises.

Book Highlights

Juvenile

Miss Smith and the Haunted Library by Michael Garland

Zach's favorite teacher, Miss. Smith takes her class and the Incredible Storybook on a field trip to the public library. When librarian, Virginia Creeper reads aloud from the storybooks, what spook stories will come to life? Check out "Where to find Scary Creatures" A guide by Virginia Creeper on the last page for some great Halloween reads.

Adult

Even Money by Dick Francis and Felix Francis

The third collaboration between Francis and son Felix, a taut crime thriller, features an especially sympathetic hero. Bookmaker Ed Talbot is struggling with his wife's mental illness, even as technology threatens to give the big bookmaking outfits an insurmountable advantage over his small family business. Soon after a man shows up at Ascot and identifies himself as Ed's father, Peter, whom Ed believed long dead. Ed is in for even more shocks when he learns his father was the prime suspect in his mother's murder—and that Peter's killing, rather than a random act of violence, may be linked to a mysterious electronic device used in some horse-racing fraud. Though some readers may find the ending overly pat, the authors make bookmaking intelligible while easily integrating it into the plot. - Publishers Weekly
